

neckline variation one

neckline variation two neckline variation three neckline developments

Print development

for this collection I wanted to develop a print. When doing my initial research I found this picture of Kurt Cobain, lead singer of Nirvana, wearing a floral dress whilst performing. This photo inspired a lot of my original ideas for the collection. I decided to use procreate to liquify the image to create a completely new image. From this I then drew over the blocks of colour in my colour scheme.

Above my various stages of print design can be seen. Some of these images I decided to overlay my colour scheme or duplicate the image but in another angle. I have circled my favourite print developments, all of which feature within this collection.

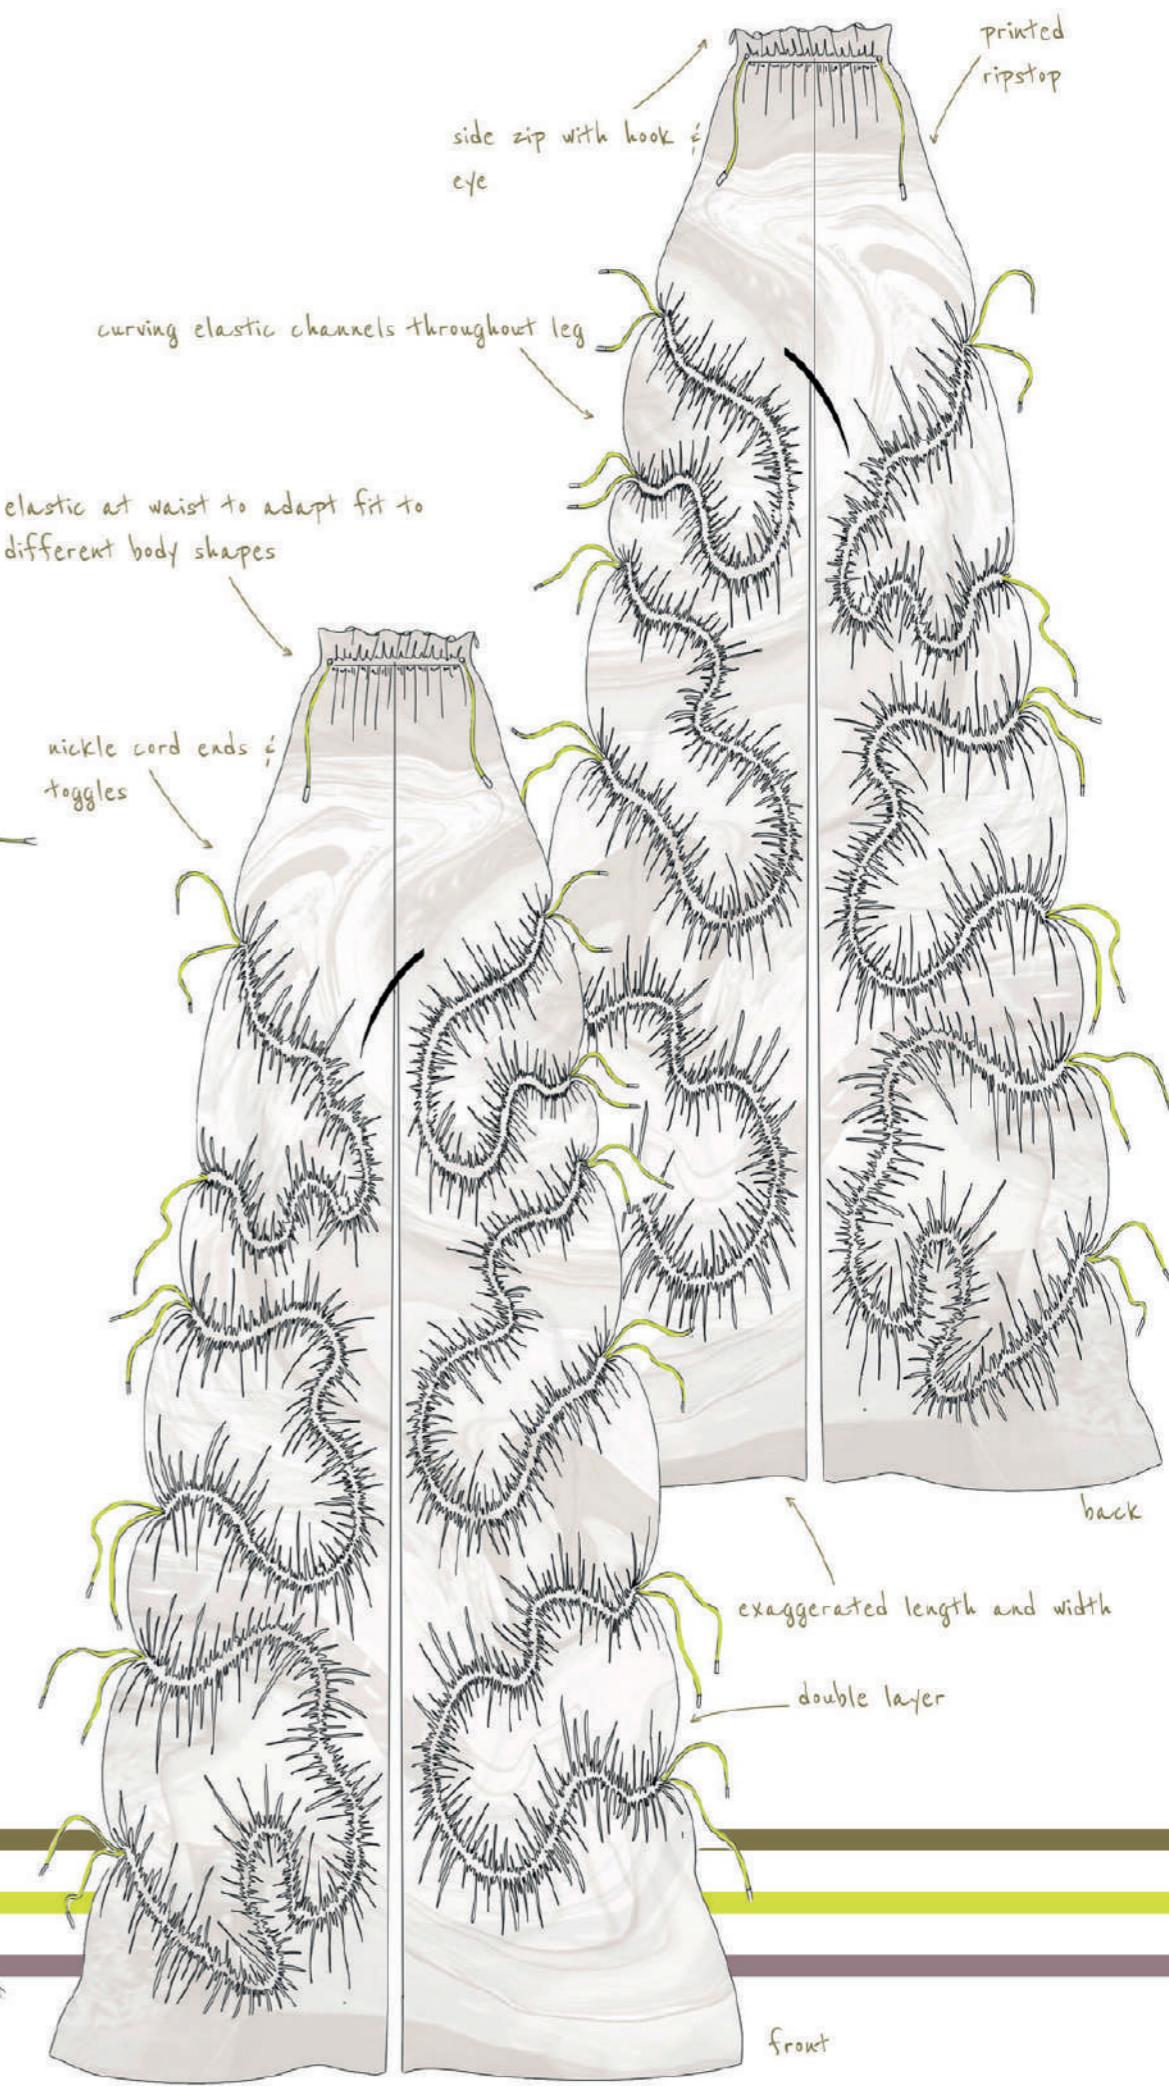

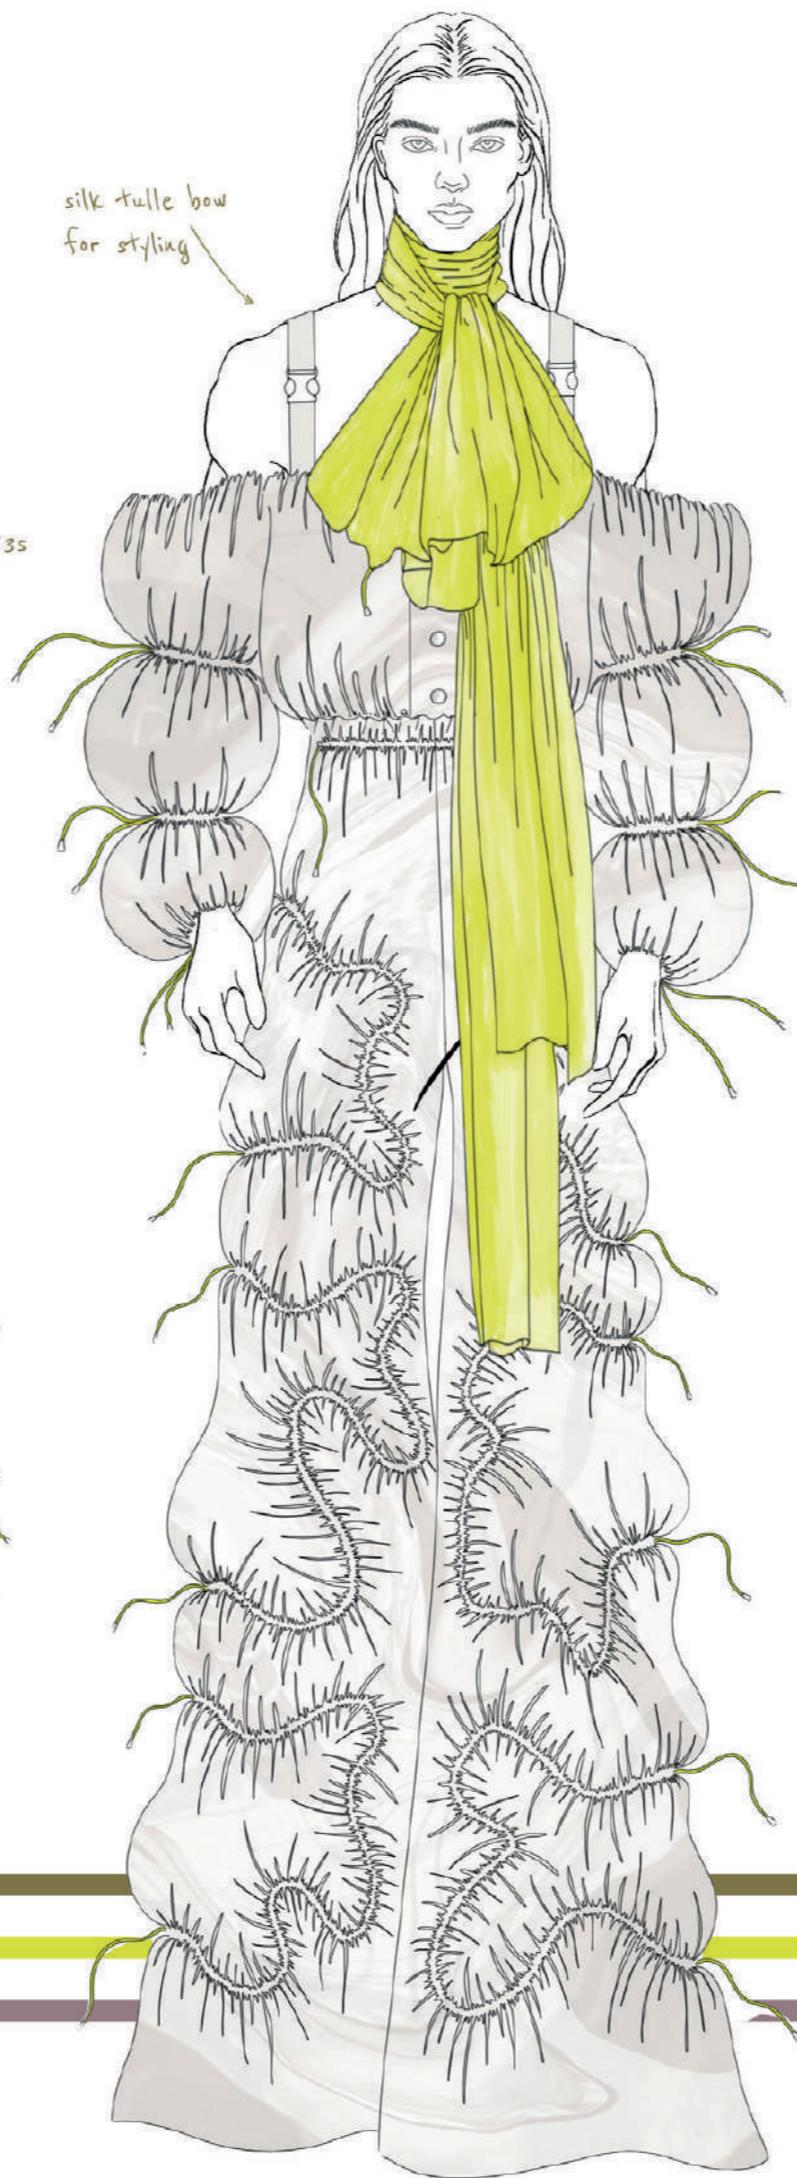

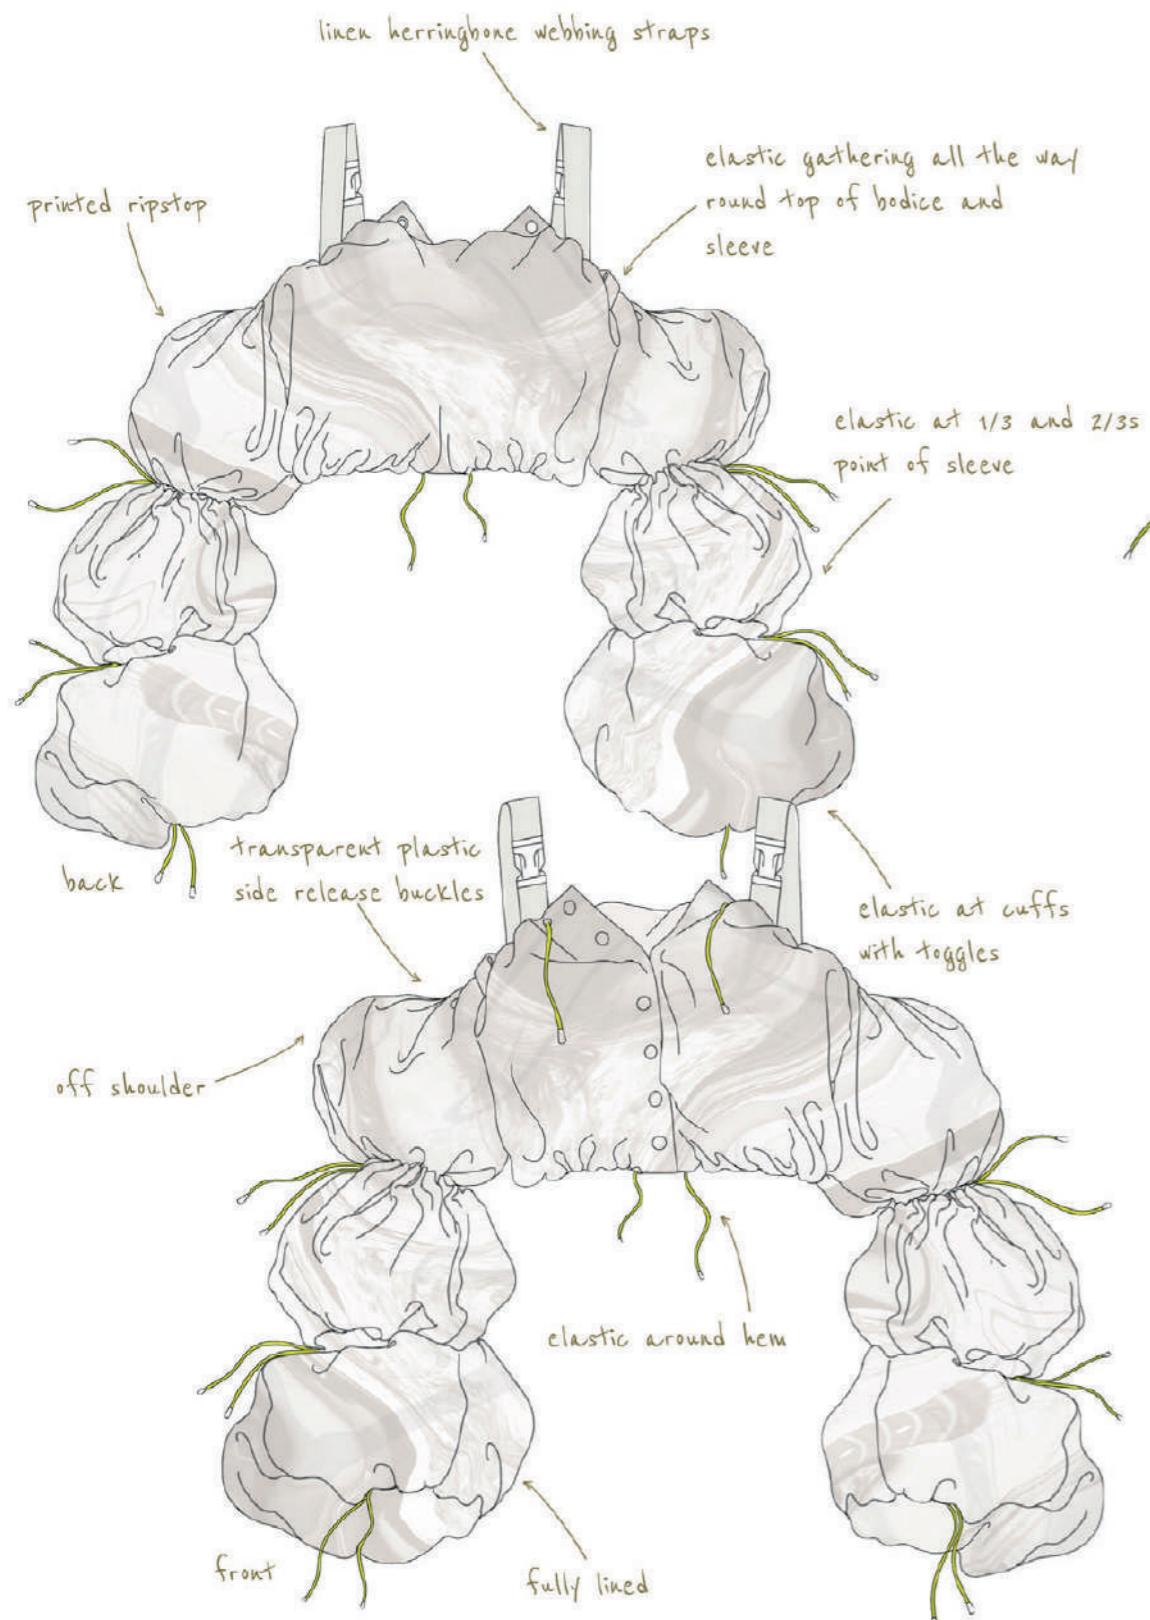

initial sketch

Look Six

