

THEY AIN'T NO HUMAN BEINGS!

"They Ain't No Human Beings" is a concept emerging from a crazy mind-blowing conspiracy theory centred around a reptilian take over of the Earth! Shape-shifters from outer space who present themselves as humans to assume the power of governments and the entertainment industry. References of this include David Icke's 1998 book "The Biggest Secret" and the 1983 television miniseries "V" which had a big impact on the popularity of the subject. According to the reptilian elite theory, the creatures have made humans into troops through mind manipulation. The question is whether you believe this is true or just another psychological disorder looking for an explanation to the bad in the world... Reptiles are also represented in ancient tribe beliefs with diverse symbolisms that make them lucky charms, examples of the cycle of life and prosperity, dream-keepers, and so on. Are they the real threat or are we humans more obsessed about being the stronger most developed species, rather than focused on understanding the reasons behind certain reptilian behaviours? In scenarios like these, animals can only react in defence, which is commonly mistaken by voluntary attack. Throughout this collection, these concept ideas have developed into unconventional shapes, prints and textures emerging from dreamy and somewhat psychedelic lines referring back to mind manipulation and the origin of certain beliefs.

"What if a species of reptiles evolved to be human-like?"
