

Childhood Nostalgia and Concept Development

Always having fun with my bestfriend knitting As my collection is called 'Growing back into childhood happiness' I wanted to look back at my own childhood. Extracting key memories and clothing that I loved myself as a child has informed my design direction. Highlighting that my collection will be textural, colourful and full of playful prints. flower development Bright colours Textures Childhood Memories and Design Development

The Jily Lane Style Guide:

My brand is maximalist, colourful and unafraid of being noticed. However, it recognizes that not all consumers are as confident and comfortable in our stand-out-of-the-crowd garments. This is why I have created a small style guide to give to each consumer to suggest styling tips in hopes that it will make the consumer wear the garments in confidence and branch out to people experiment with fashion.
